

Our Facilitators Vijayalakshmi and Shruthi leave no stone unturned in their quest to make sure children understand and do the activities with interest.

The academic year 2020-21 saw the beginning of remote learning practices. Our Facilitators would send demonstration videos for the children to understand and do the activities while staying home. But there were many children who would not be able to do them by just watching the videos. Thus, Vijayalakshmi and Shruthi decided to call up each child and explain the entire activity on the phone. However, facilitators noticed that they might have to do more than that to support learning for some more students.

Finally, both the Facilitators, with the permission of their Headmistress, decided to form community groups. A quick rapport was built with the parents and children of the community, and it was a smooth journey from there. Children were now able to do their activities with a lot more understanding and the parents would know and support their work too.
